OWI Believe It Will Take

RAID POSSIBILITIES

West Coast May Expect
Raids in Spite of Enemy's
Battered Fleet

By Joseph A. Bors
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(INS)—The Office of War Information warned today that American military and naval leaders believe it will take a minimum of 1½ to two years after the defeat of Germany to completely smash the Japanese military machine.

At the same time the OWI declared that, despite America's sea supremacy in the Pacific over the badly battered enemy fleet, there "is the possibility of sporadic raids by the Japanese on our west coast."

These observations highlight a lengthy OWI report based on facts and figures, estimates and opinions of authorities in the Navy, War and State Departments and the Foreign Economic Administration.

"Over-all military plans, including those concerned with war production, are based on the assumption that it may take years, rather than months, to defeat Japan," the report said. "One and a half to two years."

VITAL ROAD IN HOLLAND CORRIDOR REOPENED

Supreme Headquarters, A. E. F.—The vital Eindhoven-Nijmegen road through the Allied-held corridor in Holland has been reopened after another German attack severed the communications link northward to the embattled Arnhem area, headquarters announced today.

British troops of the 2nd Army and Belgian forces smashing eastward to widen the salient in Holland seized two stretches along the Maas—Meuse—river, one extending a length of 10 miles and another for a distance of five miles.

(The news blackout resulted in no mention of the airborne units isolated at Arnhem and battered for 11 days by repeated German attacks.) Headquarters meanwhile revealed that the whole east flank of the corridor northward to Nijmegen had been pushed forward and strengthened in the operations which gained the Allies control of two stretches of the Maas.

At the south of the salient Belgian forces reached the Maas river on a 10-mile north-south stretch. An official spokesman said that the Allies now hold a fairly firm line along the Maas, along the canal of the same name east to Helmond and then along the Maas again.

HUGE ALLIED FORCES LANDED IN ALBANIA

Rome.—The Allies landed airborne and seaborne forces on the Albania mainland today in the first large-scale overseas operation to speed the liberation of the Nazi-dominated Balkans.

An appreciable army of "land forces of the Adriatic" was put ashore in an amphibious invasion supported by British warships while Allied airmen were dropped from the skies.

(The German agency DNB reported landings on a broad front in Albania and along the whole Dalmatian coast to the north.)

The sweep into Albania by the Adriatic army established four months ago, followed liberation of the central Dalmatian islands off the coast of adjacent Yugoslavia to the north.

Headquarters disclosed in a communique announcing the new operations that the Adriatic units now are operating on a wide front in Adriatic country, including Albania and the islands off Yugoslavia.

The force was formed to co-operate with the Royal Navy, Royal Air Force and Allied partisan units to give a maximum of trouble to the Nazis in occupied Adriatic sectors.

One of the initial raids by the newly-formed Adriatic Army destroyed the Himar garrison in a commando-type raid against Albania. More recently combined operations liberated the central Dalmatian islands.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Concerning Double Talk

Washington, Sept. 26.—THE SATURDAY night speech of Mr. Roosevelt was the sort of effort that his partisan friends will think grand and his opponents regard as tawdry, cheap and disingenuous. But, it is hardly likely either to win or lose him votes.

The time has long gone by when anything Mr. Roosevelt conceivably could say or that conceivably could be said against him would do that.

—O—
THE RELATIVE efficiency of the party organizations in getting their vote to the polls will have considerable to do with the result, but it is doubtful whether speeches, either by the principals or by subordinates, will affect the situation one way or the other. However, the most recent Roosevelt effort is notable because it probably sets

WHY ROOSEVELT SHOULD VOTE
FOR DEWEY

PART FOUR: PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

President Roosevelt can strike a blow this Fall for the principles he says he believes in. All he needs to do is to vote for Dewey.

(Doylestown Intelligencer, Sept. 27th)

The New Deal has a fixed policy of punishing industry. Top-heavy taxes, over-regulation, bureaucracy, denial of court appeals, direct government competition, priority restrictions, side-door labor policies—these have seriously crippled the activity of American manufacturing and commerce.

The mainspring of industrial growth in a democracy necessarily is private enterprise.

It is the initiative of men and women who are desirous of profit and advancement, which makes the wheels go round.

For several years the New Dealers, working on the Communist and faintly ridiculous concept that there is a great mass struggle under way between "capital" and "labor," have attacked every form of finance and industry as being predatory and debasing.

The concept becomes silly when we stop to remember that, except in degree, there is little distinction among Americans in the use of capital. All Americans are capitalists in the sense that they own property and investments—personal property if not always real estate. They all share in such capitalistic projects as bank accounts, insurance, credit purchases, and War Bonds.

Bensalem Rotary
Club Members

HAVE SIX AS GUESTS

ANDALUSIA, Sept. 27.—Bensalem Rotary Club had six guests at its meeting last evening in King Hall.

They included the speaker of the evening, H. E. Jamison, of Upper Darby; the Rev. Howard Adams, of Docono Mountains area; Richard A. Fechtenburg, of Bristol club; Henry G. Nash, Palmyra-Riverton club; Ernest A. Minka, Bridge-water; R. C. Struble, Cornwells Heights.

Mr. Jamison, who is treasurer of the Interstate Milk Producers' Association, spoke to the group on various aspects of the dairy industry. He informed that in 1943 over 118 billion pounds of milk were produced, and that four billion dollars were paid to the farmers.

"Butter production isn't on the increase because it first of all is one of the poorest paying products of milk. Secondly, more milk is being used in production of cheese, and thirdly, fluid milk consumption is increased 20 to 25 per cent. Instead of establishing rationing for milk, the war food administration set up sales quotas which limited the dealers to the average amount of milk sold in June, 1943, and to three-quarters of the amount of cream sold in that time.

"The 'set-aside program' also was started at this time. A certain

ONE IS NOW IN JAIL

Another Under Bail; 3rd Is Under Bail for Juvenile Court

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 27.—One youth was held without bail for court, one released in $500 bail until the next term of court, and one released under bail for juvenile court, as the result of a stabbing affair which occurred here late Saturday night.

One of the three youths stabbed is in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., and his condition is said to be "not so good."

An investigation showed that the three from Trenton parked their car on North Pennsylvania avenue and were conversing with several girls. Remarks made as a group of Morrisville youths passed are said to have started an argument. Fighting started and Daniel Ray was stabbed.

Late Arthur Phillips and another group came along. Some comments about the football game that night in which Trenton high school defeated Morrisville high, 31 to 6, were passed and again fighting started.

Police said that only Phillips engaged in the melee, fighting the three young men from the car and a sailor, who had come along. Police identified the seaman only as Walter Szymko. He disappeared after the fight.

Phillips was stabbed in the back and the fighting stopped. He was taken by friends to the hospital as the Trenton trio drove off.

Those stabbed: Arthur Phillips, 17, of 465 Delmore avenue, husky Morrisville football player, is in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, with six penknife stab wounds in his back. The hospital authorities reported his condition is good.

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND DEPOT (Somewhere in England), Sept. 27.—S/Sgt. William J. McDonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. McDonnell, has won high commendation for helping to shatter world's records overhauling aircraft engines at this Air Service Command depot.

"A knockout blow against Germany" was the way his Commanding General, Brigadier General Isaac W. Ott, described the contribution of S/Sgt. McDonnell, whose extra effort makes it possible to maintain a constant air cover over Allied armies rolling through Germany.

Before entering the Air Forces in February, 1943, he was employed as an assemblayman by Fleetwings, Inc., Bristol, Pa.

S/Sgt. McDonnell attended Embury Riddle School of Aeronautics in Miami, Fla.

BOTH SIDES OF HIS MOUTH

President Roosevelt's speech before Dan Tobin's teamsters' union was a sample of shirt sleeve oratory in which he answered none of the serious charges against him, particularly his alliance with the Hillman-Browder controlled Communist CIO Political Action Committee.

There was no denial that he is depending chiefly upon Hillman and Browder to carry his campaign, and upon CIO workmen's dollars extracted by strong-arm methods. He devoted a tiresome amount of time to the sensibilities of his dog, Fala. He referred to his critics with contempt, and boiled over with hatred and sarcasm, avoiding any attempt at a logical presentation of the issues of the campaign. He seemed more concerned about purported insults to Fala than telling the real story of Pearl Harbor.

It was Dan Tobin who trotted out the Harvard accent and turned on the war path in introducing the "indispensable man." Tobin meticulously avoided using that phrase, for it is now evident that it has begun to get the goat of the Fourth Term candidate.

Notwithstanding the agreement that the conduct of military operations would be eliminated from the campaign, most of Roosevelt's speech bore down heavily on the war and the peace. He said he intended to see to it that the Republicans did not have an opportunity to mess up peace negotiations. Mr. Roosevelt DOES think he is indispensable, at least for that job. He also proved that he can talk out of both sides of his mouth, for his statements were in revolt against the facts. Actually he wouldn't need to, with Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder to provide the double talk.

No campaign speech by Roosevelt would be complete without a glowing promise. For eight years he promised economy in government, which constantly operated in the reverse; also jobs, which were never realized until the nation was plunged into a war for which it was unprepared. Repeated failures and the passing years have robbed Roosevelt of his urbanity and charm. He is a frustrated man with a vague sense of humor, clinging to the wreckage of his office, hoping to propitiate the disillusioned voters who have followed him blindly by holding out the promise of an abundant life far beyond the dreams of mankind or his ability to produce.

the style in which his campaign will be conducted during the next six weeks. Clearly, it is not going to be on a very high plane; but then, that is no change. The Roosevelt campaigns have never been on a lofty level. The New Deal formula for meeting criticism and making political speeches always has negated any idea of accuracy or fairness. This Roosevelt speech conformed entirely to the formula. It ignored the facts, abused the President's lead, and a campaign of bitterness and personalities appears scheduled. Evidence of this was given on Sunday by Mr. Ickes, who, immediately following the Roosevelt speech, indulged in one of his typically coarse tirades. It strikes the key for the whole fourth-term publicity.

"We stand for a revival of powers close to the people. We are emerging from a period in which the communities and the states engaged in a holiday of surrendering responsibility to the National Government.

"Our success in the war and the future of our country are indissolubly tied up with the maintenance of competent state government, competent governments in cities, counties, towns and villages. That is the essence of the federal system we are worn to maintain."

IN FACT, he has committed practically every crime with which he charged his opponents. In addition, by the clear intimation that he alone is fit to make the peace, he seemed to insist that the question of post-war foreign policy remains a political issue, just when most thoughtful Americans hoped that the Dewey attitude had taken it wholly out of the campaign. Unquestionably, the lesser fourth-term spokesmen will follow the President's lead, and a campaign of bitterness and personalities appears scheduled. Evidence of this was given on Sunday by Mr. Ickes, who, immediately following the Roosevelt speech, indulged in one of his typically coarse tirades. It strikes the key for the whole fourth-term publicity.

Nora was sitting up in bed, reading the Wrightsville Record. She was unhealthily-looking. Ellery was shocked to see how transparent the skin of her hands had grown. Nora smiled wanly and patted the bed.

"Patty darling, sit down."

"I really have to be going. You two can talk."

"But I want you to hear this, too."

Pat sat down in the chintz-covered chair on the other side of the bed.

"For having accused you of telling the police about those three letters and the toxicology book."

"You see? I forgot it. You do the same."

Nora took his hand. "It was a malicious thought. But for the moment I couldn't imagine who'd told them but you."

"You weren't responsible, Nora," said Pat. "Ellery understands that."

"But there's something else," cried Nora. "I can apologize for a nasty thought, but I can't wipe out what I did to Jim." Her lower lip quivered. "If not for me, they'd never have found out about those letters!"

Nora sniffled with her handkerchief to her nose. "I don't know why I didn't burn them. Such a stupid thing—to keep them in that hatbox in my closet! But I had some idea I'd be able to find out who really wrote them—I was sure Jim hadn't."

"Nora," said Ellery gently, "Forget it."

"But I practically handed Jim over to the police!"

"That isn't true. Don't forget Dakin came here last week prepared to arrest Jim. Questioning you beforehand was just a formality."

"Then you think those letters and the book don't make any essential difference?" asked Nora eagerly.

Ellery got up from the bed and looked out the window at the winter sky. "Well . . . not too much."

"You're—deceiving me!"

"Mrs. Haight," declared Pat firmly, "you've had enough company for one morning. Ellery, scram!"

He turned around. "This sister of yours, Pat, will surely move from doubt than from knowledge. Nora, I'll tell you exactly what the situation is."

Nora gripped her comforter with both hands.

"If Dakin was prepared to arrest Jim before he knew about the letters and the toxicology book, then obviously he and Carter Bradford thought they had a good case."

Nora made a tiny sound. "With the letters and the book, therefore, they have a better case. Now that's the truth you've got to face; you've got to stop accusing yourself, you've got to get well again, you've got to stand by Jim and give him courage."

He leaned over her and took her hand. "Jim needs your strength, Nora. You have a strength he lacks. He can't face you, but if he knows you're behind him, having faith—" "Yes," breathed Nora, her eyes shining. "I have. Tell him I have."

"Going my way?" asked Ellery as they left the house.

"Which way is that?"

"Courthouse. I want to see Jim."

"Me too," chimed in Pat.

They drove down the Hill in silence. Wrightsville looked nicely wintry, all whites and reds and blacks, no shading; it had the country look, the simple cleanliness, of a Giant Wood plantation.

The County Jail occupied the two topmost floors of the Courthouse. As they stepped out of the elevator into the waiting room, an odor of steam and yeast made Pat swallow hard. But she managed a smile for the benefit of Wally Planetsky, the officer on duty.

"Where's Mr. Haight's cell?"

"Judge Martin's with him, Miss Pat. Rules say only one visitor at a time, but . . . Officer Planetsky's voice subsided into acquiescence and they began a rather long march, interrupted by the unlocking and locking of iron doors, until they entered Haight's cell.

Jim sprang to his feet when he spied them, a quick flash coming to his sallow cheeks; but then he sat down again and said hoarsely:

"Hello there, I didn't know you were coming."

"Hello, Jim!" greeted Pat cheerily. "How are you?"

"All right."

Judge Martin had risen and bowed. Jim, I'll be on my way. I'll drop in tomorrow for another talk."

"Thanks, Judge."

"Nora's fine," said Pat. "That's swell."

Then Ellery interjected, "Pat, didn't you say you had an errand somewhere? There's something I'd like to say to Jim in private."

Pat turned her pale face to Ellery, mumbled something, smiled weakly at Jim, and left with the Judge.

Ellery looked down at Jim who was studying the bare floor of his cell.

"He wants me to talk," mumbled Jim suddenly.

"Well, why not?"

"What could I say?"

Ellery offered him a cigarette. Jim took it, but when Ellery held a lighted match, he shook his head and slowly tore the cigarette to shreds.

"You could say," murmured Ellery, "that you didn't write those three letters, or mark that paragraph on arsenic."

For an instant Jim's fingers stopped tormenting the cigarette; then they resumed their work of destruction. Suddenly, Ellery asked, "Did you really plan to poison Nora?"

Haight did not even indicate that he had heard the question.

"You know, Jim, when a man is guilty of a crime he's much better off telling the truth to his lawyer and friends than keeping quiet. And when he's not guilty, it's actually criminal to keep quiet. It's a crime against himself."

Jim said nothing.

"How do you expect your family and friends to help you when you won't help yourself?"

Jim's lips moved.

"What did you say, Jim?"

"Nothing."

"As a matter of fact," went on Ellery briskly, "your crime of silence isn't directed half so much against yourself as it is against your wife and the child that's coming."

"Don't say that!" said Jim hoarsely. "Get out of here! I didn't ask you to come! I didn't ask Judge Martin to defend me!"

"Is that," asked Ellery, "what you want me to tell Nora?"

There was such misery in Jim's eyes as he sat on the edge of his cell bunk that Ellery went to the door and called Planetsky.

As Ellery followed the guard down the eye-studded corridor a cell exploded in his brain with a great and disproportionate burst of light.

He actually stopped walking, causing old Planetsky to turn and look at him in surprise. But then he shook his head and strode on again. He'd almost had it that time—by sheer divination. Maybe the next time . . .

Pat drew a deep breath outside the frosted-glass door on the second floor of the County Courthouse, tried to see her reflection, peered nervously at her mink hat, tried out a smile or two, not too successfully, and then went in. Miss Bilcox looked as if she were seeing a ghost.

"Is the Prosecutor in, Billy?" inquired Pat.

"I'll . . . see, Miss Wright," said Miss Bilcox.

Carter Bradford came out to her in a hurry.

"Come in, Pat." He looked tired. His desk was covered with legal papers.

"Well," said Pat, looking around. "The old office—I mean the new office—doesn't seem to have changed, Carl."

"About the only thing that hasn't; but, Pat, let me say, you look simply delicious."

"It's nice of you to say so," sighed Pat.

"Why I dream about you," said Carter with a self-conscious laugh. "Now, Carl, you know perfectly well you're just saying that to be polite."

He shook his head. "Dreaming or not dreaming, it's always the same. Your face—"

Then she was in his arms. It was like a spy drama, except that she hadn't planned the script exactly this way. This was to come after—a reward to Cart for being a sweet, self-sacrificing boy. His lips sought hers.

Governor Dewey made it clear that he did not intend to permit his opponent and his literary aids, now headed by Mr. Robert Sherwood, to get by with this kind of stuff. But, he did not touch upon the most brazen of the Roosevelt statements—for example, that in which he elegantly asserted that he had never learned how "to talk out of both sides of my mouth at the same time." Certainly, the record refutes this assertion 100 per cent. It is full of instances of Presidential double talk and there are innumerable witnesses. It was an astounding thing for a man to say who had once publicly repudiated the League of Nations and now is one of its leading advocates; who denounced those who charged that he would take the nation off the gold standard and then took it off as quickly as he could; who vehemently assailed the Hoover administration for deficit spending and then created deficits greater than anyone ever dreamed.

BUT, going from issues to individuals, think of a man who assails his opponent for double talk, after the sort of double talk he gave Mr. Byrnes last June and the sort of letter he wrote Mr. Wallace and the sort of deal he gave Senator Barkley! And these are not all. Certainly, it takes supreme effrontery for a man with the Roosevelt record of inconsistency and contradiction publicly to preen himself as having never learned to talk out of both sides of his mouth and to criticize his opponents for so doing.

The Republicans, of course, cannot call the President of the United States a liar and a fraud, but certainly it is permissible to show from the record that, coming from him, this charge of double talk is both ridiculous and hypocritical. And it should be shown, too, because it is as phony a pose as can be imagined. If the American people accept it, then there really is nothing they cannot be given—no limit to their gullibility. Governor Dewey took full advantage of most of the openings Mr. Roosevelt had given him, except this double-talk opening, which is the widest of all. It ought not to be overlooked. It and that preposterous Roosevelt reference to the "occasional" strike should give the Republicans enough ammunition for the rest of the campaign.

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church

Our Father in heaven, whose patience knows no bounds, we thank thee for the coming of thy kingdom in the world, and for the means of grace in our lives. We bless thee for the Son of Man; serving in Galilee, loving in Judea, triumphing in Gethsemane, atoning on Calvary and rising from the grave. We rejoice in our redemption through him and in the hope of immortality brought to light by him. Yet in our weakness we have set our hearts on things on the earth. We have thought success better than righteousness and ease desirable above service. In thy patience brood over our dull spirits till love awakens in us. We commit ourselves to the Son of Man in holy living and loving service, for his Name's sake. Amen.

Tot of Two Years Has A Party; Children Play Games

Elizabeth Ann Marchetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Marchetti, Jefferson avenue, who was two years old on Sunday afternoon, had a birthday party. The children attending had a merry time and a few games were played. Prizes were given to Katherine Cashmere and Nicholas Barbeta. Cold platters were served. The room was decorated in peach and pink and a bouquet of cut flowers formed the table centerpiece. Favors were snappers and small baskets of candy. Elizabeth both Ann received a number of gifts, among them a war bond from her parents.

PLANS FOR MILK

Surprising... the amount of planning and working that goes into a single quart of milk that arrives on your doorstep in the morning.

It starts on the Supplee farms... the seeds the farmer plants, the crops he harvests, are all part of the plan... for proper feeding methods, along with scientific breeding for increased production, are playing a big part in helping to meet today's great needs, and will continue to help to keep up the flow of milk at the highest possible level during the low production months ahead.

In spite of wartime shortages and drawbacks, Supplee farmers are ever on the job to bring you a nourishing share of this most important of foods, with its wealth of proteins, vitamins and minerals. And you can help in using it wisely... in ordering just the milk you need for your family, and in using cream and milk products conservatively. For dairy products are under government restriction so that more of them can be preserved in permanent forms for shipping to our armies and allies.

ANTONELLI ENTERS BOWLING HALL OF FAME

Joseph Antonelli, of the Rohm & Haas bowling team (Major League), entered the "hall of fame" in bowling circles, Monday, at "Chick" O'Day's bowling emporium, here, when he bowled three two-hundred-and-something games. This is considered the next best thing to a perfect "300" feat. It is understood that "Joe" is to receive some sort of recognition for his feat by a Philadelphia newspaper. "Joe" is considered quite a baseball tosser, which may account for his prowess as a "knocker-down" of the maples.

Sellersville Couple Has 6 Boys Serving

The Ketterers' pride is mingled with a constant fear for the safety of their boys and the unending hope that all will be back soon, but they are not complaining. They go about their work as usual. Mr. Ketterer as a carpenter employed by contractor William Horn, Perkaskie, and Mrs. Ketterer, as an operator in the Beidler Clothing factory here, and seek nothing more than an opportunity to earn an honest living for their large family. Yes, with six sons and a son-in-law in the army they still have four sons and two daughters at home.

Nor were the Ketterers spared the ordeal of opening a telegram from the army. Several weeks ago the bad news came, but there was a sigh of relief when the message said "slightly injured in action."

It referred to Pfc. Norman Ketterer, who got several shell splinters in the back and leg in the Normandy invasion. He is now recuperating in a hospital in England and expects to be ready for action in the near future. Two other sons are over seas, Pvt. Clarence in England and Pfc. Raymond, in Scotland.

The boys, in order of their induction are:

Cpl. George O. Ketterer, inducted March, 1941, received his basic training at Fort Riley, Kansas, is stationed at Fort McIntosh, Texas.

Pvt. Raymond B. Ketterer, inducted December, 1942, received his basic training with the Medical Corps at Camp Robinson, Ark., is at present in Scotland.

Pfc. Lloyd B. Ketterer, inducted in January, 1943, is stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

Pfc. Norman B. Ketterer, inducted May 8, 1943, received his basic training at Camp Shelby, Miss., was in France, at present is in hospital in England.

Pvt. Harvey L. Keller, son-in-law, inducted July, 1943, received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., is now stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Pvt. Clarence W. Ketterer, inducted March 13, 1944, received his basic training at Camp Blanding, Fla., is at present in England.

Pfc. Stanley B. Ketterer served 13 months in the U. S. Army when he received an honorable discharge.

The "Paoli Local" crew arrived overseas last spring. At the time, their bomber was nameless, but once "Paoli Local" was suggested, the preponderance of Pennsylvania strength left little room for argument. Since then, the big Liberator has rained over the Balkans, northern Italy and southern Germany, hitting at Nazi industrial and communications targets, helping to cripple the enemy's powers of resistance.

Two other youths were discharged.

Warn of Long War With The Enemy in Pacific Area

years after the defeat of Germany is considered the absolute minimum. "Pacific commanders assert that Japan has lost the power of a strategic offensive beyond the range of her land-based planes. This is due to U. S. supremacy in aircraft carriers, and to the sinking of many of the lighter screening units of Japan's fleet. Not eliminated, however, is the possibility of sporadic raids by the Japanese on our west coast."

The OWI also warned that "no internal collapse of Japan is expected," and pointed out that the enemy has a powerful army of 4,000,000 men, his geographical position is favorable and he still has a strong navy of 10 to 13 battleships, 10 to 12 large aircraft carriers and smaller warships.

The strategic advantages of the Allies were listed by the OWI as follows:

1. The huge Allied war production. The U. S. alone produces 8,000 combat planes a month as contrasted with Japan's estimated production of 1,400 or 1,500 planes a month.

2. The United States has definite sea supremacy in the Pacific (here the OWI warned of the possibility of Jap raids on the Pacific coast.)

3. Japan's merchant shipping is being sunk at a much greater rate than her ability to replace ships. Sinkings are estimated at 1,500,000 tons per year as compared with the enemy's ship construction of 1,000,000 tons annually.

4. Nipponese industries now are being hit by B-29 Superfortress bombers. It was pointed out that the raids have been possible only at periods of 10 days or more "but it constitutes a definite advance in the warfare against Japan."

5. Island-skipping has neutralized about 50 major Jap bases in the Pacific, and the Marianas invasion placed American forces 1,400 miles from Tokyo.

6. Allied forces now are established so that another major move (into the Philippines) will place them in a position to virtually sever Japan's north-south sea communication lines.

7. The OWI quotes Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the effect that Japan has a powerful army but that she is "weak in leadership" due to the fact that her officer corps is built upon a caste and feudal system instead of professional merit.

8. At sea Japan has been out-fought and outmaneuvered. In the air, the enemy has lost five planes to our one. On the ground, the Jap soldier has been beaten in every battle since the Allied offensive began.

9. Japan has failed to capitalize fully on her conquests since Pearl Harbor. Primarily, Japan's war production is the capacity of her pre-Pearl Harbor industrial plant rather than the raw material resources of her conquests.

Following are some of the highlights of the factors favoring Japan:

1. According to the FEA Japan is capable of increasing her war production.

2. Geography fights on the side of Japan; the Allies are still beyond mass bombing range of Jap cities.

3. Before major invasions can be launched, the Allies must solve a tremendous shipping problem.

4. The course of the war in China has been in Japan's favor; safe supply routes to China still are to be opened by the Allies.

WHY ROOSEVELT SHOULD VOTE FOR DEWEY

Despite the utterances of New Deal spokesmen, and their success in moulding the administration's record, so far as public utterances go the President joins hands with the Republican Party in championing the twin causes of private enterprise and personal ownership and use of property.

Said he, for example, in an address at Chicago on October 14, 1936:

"I believe, I have always believed, and I will always believe in private enterprise as the backbone of economic well-being in the United States."

Should he not therefore vote this Fall for Governor Dewey, who is the sole remaining hope of private enterprise in America?

The President's endorsements of private enterprise and the profit motive have occurred many times. The following are to the point.

"The first duty of our statesmanship today is to bring capital and man-power together."—Annual Message to Congress, January 4, 1939.

"Business enterprise needs new vitality and the flexibility that comes from the diversified efforts, independent judgments and vibrant energies of thousands upon thousands of independent businessmen. The individual must be encouraged to exercise his own judgment and to venture his small savings, not in stock gambling but in new enterprise investment."—Message to Congress April 29, 1938.

"Most business men, big and little, know that their government neither wants to put them out of business nor to prevent them from earning a decent profit."—Fireside Chat, October 12, 1937.

"Different from a great part of the world, we in America persist in our belief in individual enterprise and the profit motive..."—Fireside Chat, June 24, 1938.

These remarks do not reflect the dominant sentiment of the New Deal policy makers. That sentiment is strongly in favor of close government control of industry, preferably under monopolies of retaining all the present authorities over man-power, commodity priorities, prices, rationing, and government-owned industrial plants and establishments.

If the President really is in earnest about wishing to see an industrial awakening under the stimulus of private initiative, his one hope of realizing that wish is to vote for Governor Dewey.

(Tomorrow: Senator Truman)

The gathering, which was of an informal nature, was featured by talks by several members of the family, including Dr. Robert Mearns Yerkes, a native of Hartsville and some years ago a member of the faculty of Harvard University.

Dr. Yerkes, who was sent by Harvard to study animals in parts of this country and Europe, spoke in an interesting manner of his boyhood in Bucks county.

Leonard R. Hippler, 45, an insurance adjuster employed by the U. S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Philadelphia, was found a suicide in the garage of his home at Unionville, seven miles west of Doylestown, Monday.

His body was found by Frank K. Geyer, a butcher, who went to Hippler's house. Hippler is survived by his wife and a daughter by a former wife.

OWI Believe It Will Take

RAID POSSIBILITIES

West Coast May Expect
Raids in Spite of Enemy's
Battered Fleet

By Joseph A. Bors
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—(INS)—The Office of War Information warned today that American military and naval leaders believe it will take a minimum of 1½ to two years after the defeat of Germany to completely smash the Japanese military machine.

At the same time the OWI declared that, despite America's sea supremacy in the Pacific over the badly battered enemy fleet, there "is the possibility of sporadic raids by the Japanese on our west coast."

These observations highlight a lengthy OWI report based on facts and figures, estimates and opinions of authorities in the Navy, War and State Departments and the Foreign Economic Administration.

"Over-all military plans, including those concerned with war production, are based on the assumption that it may take years, rather than months, to defeat Japan," the report said. "One and a half to two

Supreme Headquarters, A. E. F.—The vital Eindhoven-Nijmegen road through the Allied-held corridor in Holland has been reopened after another German attack severed the communications link northward to the embattled Arnhem area, headquarters announced today.

British troops of the 2nd Army and Belgian forces smashing eastward to widen the salient in Holland seized two stretches along the Maas—Meuse—river, one extending a length of 10 miles and another for a distance of five miles.

(The news blackout resulted in no mention of the airborne units isolated at Arnhem and battered for 11 days by repeated German attacks.)

Headquarters meanwhile revealed that the whole east flank of the corridor northward to Nijmegen had been pushed forward and strengthened in the operations which gained the Allies control of two stretches of the Maas.

At the south of the salient Belgian forces reached the Maas river on a 10-mile north-south stretch. An official spokesman said that the Allies now hold a fairly firm line along the Maas, along the canal of the same name east to Helmond and then along the Maas again.

HUGE ALLIED FORCES LANDED IN ALBANIA

Rome.—The Allies landed airborne and seaborne forces on the Albania mainland today in the first large-scale overseas operation to speed the liberation of the Nazi-dominated Balkans.

An appreciable army of "land forces of the Adriatic" was put ashore in an amphibious invasion supported by British warships while Allied airmen were dropped from the skies.

(The German agency DNB reported landings on a broad front in Albania and along the whole Dalmatian coast to the north.)

The sweep into Albania by the Adriatic army established four months ago, followed liberation of the central Dalmatian islands off the coast of adjacent Yugoslavia to the north.

Headquarters disclosed in a communique announcing the new operations that the Adriatic units now are operating on a wide front in Adriatic country, including Albania and the islands off Yugoslavia.

The force was formed to co-operate with the Royal Navy, Royal Air Force and Allied partisan units to give a maximum of trouble to the Nazis in occupied Adriatic sectors.

One of the initial raids by the newly-formed Adriatic Army destroyed the Himar garrison in a commando-type raid against Albania. More recently combined operations liberated the central Dalmatian islands.

Concerning Double Talk

Washington, Sept. 26.—THE SATURDAY night speech of Mr. Roosevelt was the sort of effort that his partisan friends will think grand and his opponents regard as tawdry, cheap and disingenuous. But, it is hardly likely either to win or lose him votes.

The time has long gone by when anything Mr. Roosevelt conceivably could say or that conceivably could be said against him would do that.

BY THIS time 99 per cent. of the voters know how they are going to vote, and practically no souls will be saved by political oratory from now out. To a considerable degree this has been so from the start. Either you are for Mr. Roosevelt or you are against him, and the number of voters capable of being influenced by the position of the candi-

Men's Organization Is Formed, Harriman Church

Men of Harriman Methodist Church formed a new men's organization on Monday evening. The organization was named the Brotherhood of Harriman Methodist Church.

The purpose of the organization is threefold: (1) to provide Christian fellowship for the men of Harriman, (2) to lead other men to Christ and into the Christian way of life, (3) to serve the church in whatever capacity such an organization can be of service to the church.

The last Tuesday of every month has been chosen as the monthly meeting night. A well-planned program of Christian fellowship will be enjoyed every meeting night.

Officers were elected as follows: Peter Peters, Jr., Edgely, president; Willard Berglund, Green Lane and Ash avenue, vice-president; Dea Holland, Landreth Manor, secretary; and Paul Marsh, Croydon, treasurer.

The meeting was conducted by the Rev. E. K. Knetter. Refreshments were served and a high spirit of enthusiasm concerning the new organization was prevalent.

Riegelsville Soldiers

These soldiers are Tech. Sgt. Franklin Holtmeier and Lieut. Herbert Holtmeier, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Holtmeier, of this place, and Lieut. William M. McElhane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McElhane, Easton.

Sgt. Holtmeier has been serving as a waist gunner, and his brother, a pilot, has completed his missions.

The plane Lt. Holtmeier used in all his flights was wrecked the first time it was used by the new pilot, to whom he turned it over. The pilot was saved.

Lt. Holtmeier and Lt. McElhane, also a pilot, recently received the Presidential Unit Citation for "exceptional aggressiveness, outstanding performance of duty and extraordinary heroism in action."

WHY ROOSEVELT SHOULD VOTE
FOR DEWEY

PART FOUR: PRIVATE ENTERPRISE
President Roosevelt can strike a blow this Fall for the principles he says he believes in.
All he needs to do is to vote for Dewey. . . .

(Doylestown Intelligencer, Sept. 27th)

The New Deal has a fixed policy of punishing industry. Top-heavy taxes, over-regulation, bureaucracy, denial of court appeals, direct government competition, priority restrictions, side-door labor policies—these have seriously crippled the activity of American manufacturing and commerce.

The mainspring of industrial growth in a democracy necessarily is private enterprise.

It is the initiative of men and women who are desirous of profit and advancement, which makes the wheels go round.

For several years the New Dealers, working on the Communistic and faintly ridiculous concept that there is a great mass struggle under way between "capital" and "labor," have attacked every form of finance and industry as being predatory and debasing.

The concept becomes silly when we stop to remember that, except in degree, there is little distinction among Americans in the use of capital. All Americans are capitalists in the sense that they own property and investments—personal property if not always real estate. They all share in such capitalistic projects as bank accounts, insurance, credit purchases, and War Bonds.

CONSIDER ASPECTS OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

H. E. Jamison Addresses
Bensalem Rotary
Club Members

HAVE SIX AS GUESTS

ANDALUSIA, Sept. 27.—Bensalem Rotary Club had six guests at a meeting last evening in King Hall.

They included the speaker of the evening, H. E. Jamison, of Upper Darby; the Rev. Howard Adams, of "Ocono Mountains area; Richard V. Fechtenburg, of Bristol club; Henry G. Nashby, Palmyra-Riverton club; Ernest A. Minka, Bridge-water; R. C. Struble, Cornwells Heights.

Mr. Jamison, who is treasurer of the Interstate Milk Producers' Association, spoke to the group on various aspects of the dairy industry. He informed that in 1943 over 118 billion pounds of milk were produced, and that four billion dollars were paid to the farmers.

"Butter production isn't on the increase because it first of all is one of the poorest paying products of milk. Secondly, more milk is being used in production of cheese, and thirdly, fluid milk consumption is increased 20 to 25 per cent. Instead of establishing rationing for milk, the war food administration set up sales quotas which limited the dealers to the average amount of milk sold in June, 1943, and to three-quarters of the amount of cream sold in that time.

"The 'set-aside' program" also was started at this time. A certain

New Hope Teen-Age Center
Is Okayed By The State

NEW HOPE, Sept. 27.—The Building fund committee of the New Hope Recreation Centre has received word that the Pennsylvania State Council of Defense has authorized a state-wide program of teen-age centres and plans an appropriation to assist equipping approved projects.

"A serious problem has arisen during the war for teen-age young people, those between the ages of 13 and 17," stated the council in calling attention to the new plan. "They have expressed their desires or the need of community centres in which boys and girls may mingle socially, dance and play games under proper circumstances, good environment and adequate chaperonage."

The state program contemplates the establishment of centres by the community, supported and equipped by the community and controlled locally. The council will suggest standards and provide help for the local leadership and in many cases contribute funds necessary for the initial equipment.

TRIO IS HELD BY

STABBING FRACAS

ONE IS NOW IN JAIL

Another Under Bail; 3rd Is Under Bail for Juvenile Court

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 27.—One youth was held without bail for court, one released in $500 bail until the next term of court, and one released under bail for juvenile court, as the result of a stabbing affair which occurred here late Saturday night.

One of the three youths stabbed is in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., and his condition is said to be "not so good."

An investigation showed that the three from Trenton parked their car on North Pennsylvania avenue and were conversing with several girls. Remarks made as a group of Morrisville youths passed are said to have started an argument. Fighting started and Daniel Ray was stabbed.

Later Arthur Phillips and another group came along. Some comments about the football game that night in which Trenton high school defeated Morrisville high, 31 to 6, were passed and again fighting started.

Police said that only Phillips engaged in the melee, fighting the three young men from the car and a sailor, who had come along. Police identified the seaman only as Walter Szymko. He disappeared after the fight.

Phillips was stabbed in the back and the fighting stopped. He was taken by friends to the hospital as the Trenton trio drove off.

Those stabbed: Arthur Phillips, 17, of 455 Delmor avenue, husky Morrisville football player, is in Mercer Hospital, Trenton, with six penknife stab wounds in his back. The hospital authorities reported his condition is good.

Another Morrisville boy, Thomas Phillips, 16, of 457 Delmor avenue, while reporting the circumstances of the melee to Trenton police com-

AN AIR SERVICE COMMAND DEPOT (Somewhere in England), Sept. 27.—Sgt. William J. McDonnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. McDonnell, has won high commendation for helping to shatter world's records overhauling aircraft engines at this Air Service Command depot.

He and his fellow mechanics overhauled engines last month totalling two and a half million horsepower, the highest figure recorded since Air Service Command began operations in England.

"A knockout blow against Germany" was the way his Commanding General, Brigadier General Isaac W. Ott, described the contribution of S/Sgt. McDonnell, whose extra effort makes it possible to maintain a constant air cover over Allied armies rolling through Germany.

Before entering the Air Forces in February, 1943, he was employed as an assemblyman by Fleetwings, Inc., Bristol, Pa.

S/Sgt. McDonnell attended Embury Riddle School of Aeronautics in Miami, Fla.

BOTH SIDES OF HIS MOUTH

President Roosevelt's speech before Dan Tobin's teamsters' reunion was a sample of shirt sleeve oratory in which he answered none of the serious charges against him, particularly his alliance with the Hillman-Browder controlled Communistic CIO Political Action Committee.

There was no denial that he is depending chiefly upon Hillman and Browder to carry his campaign, and upon CIO workmen's dollars extracted by strong-arm methods. He devoted a tiresome amount of time to the sensibilities of his dog, Fala. He referred to his critics with contempt, and boiled over with hatred and sarcasm, avoiding any attempt at a logical presentation of the issues of the campaign. He seemed more concerned about purported insults to Fala than telling the real story of Pearl Harbor.

It was Dan Tobin who trotted out the Harvard accent and turned on the war pathos in introducing the "indispensable man," Tobin meticulously avoided using that phrase, for it is now evident that it has begun to get the goat of the Fourth Term candidate.

Notwithstanding the agreement that the conduct of military operations would be eliminated from the campaign, most of Roosevelt's speech bore down heavily on the war and the peace.
He said he intended to see to it that the Republicans did not get an opportunity to mess up peace negotiations. Mr. Roosevelt DOES think he is indispensable, at least for that job. He also proved that he can talk out of both sides of his mouth, for his statements were in revolt against the facts. Actually he wouldn't need to, with Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder to provide the double talk.

No campaign speech by Roosevelt would be complete without a glowing promise. For eight years he promised economy in government, which constantly operated in the reverse; also jobs, which were never realized until the nation was plunged into a war for which it was unprepared.

Repeated failures and the passing years have robbed Roosevelt of his urbanity and charm.
He is a frustrated man with a vague sense of humor, clinging to the wreckage of his office, hoping to propitiate the disillusioned voters who have followed him blindly by holding out the promise of an abundant life far beyond the dreams of mankind or his ability to produce.

Oldahoma lieutenant who talked 1,500 Germans into surrender may be acquiring good training for the ordeal at home when he goes shopping for his favorite brand of cigars.

New super-gasoline, four times as effective as any now in use, has been reduced in cost from $3,000 to $35 per gallon. But how many miles to the gallon?

Now that vivivillain has been brought out to supplement penicilin, disease germs might as well call it a day.

THE GREAT GAME
OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The style in which his campaign will be conducted during the next six weeks. Clearly, it is not going to be on a very high plane; but then, that is no change. The Roosevelt campaign has never been on a lofty level. The New Deal formula for meeting criticism and making political speeches always has negated any idea of accuracy or fairness. This Roosevelt speech conformed entirely to the formula.
It ignored the facts, abused the opposition, abounded with feebly funny quips, lumped the whole opposition up as liars and frauds, attributed to it the lowest of motives and, smugly ascribing to himself all wisdom, foresight and virtue, denounced the Republicans for misrepresentation while himself making various ugly and misleading innuendoes.

"We stand for a revival of powers close to the people. We are emerging from a period in which Nourish the Roots.

the communities and the states engaged in a holiday of surrendering responsibility to the National Government.

"Our success in the war and the future of our country are indissolubly tied up with the maintenance of competent state government, competent governments in cities, counties, towns and villages. That is the essence of the federal system we are sworn to maintain."

IN FACT, he has committed practically every crime with which he charged his opponents. In addition, by the clear intimation that he alone is fit to make the peace, he seemed to insist that the question of post-war foreign policy remains a political issue, just when most thoughtful Americans hoped that the Dewey attitude had taken it wholly out of the campaign. Unquestionably, the lesser fourth-term spokesmen will follow the President's lead, and a campaign of bitterness and personalities appears scheduled. Evidence of this was given on Sunday by Mr. Ickes, who, immediately following the Roosevelt speech, indulged in one of his typically coarse tirades. It strikes the key for the whole fourth-term publicity.

IN HIS Oklahoma speech last night

Governor Dewey made it clear that he did not intend to permit his opponent and his literary aids, now headed by Mr. Robert Sherwood, to get by with this kind of stuff. But, he did not touch upon the most brazen of the Roosevelt statements—for example, that in which he elegantly asserted that he had never learned how "to talk out of both sides of my mouth at the same time." Certainly the record refutes this assertion 100 per cent. It is full of instances of Presidential double talk and there are innumerable witnesses. It was an astounding thing for a man to say who had once publicly repudiated the League of Nations and now is one of its leading advocates; who denounced those who charged that he would take the nation off the gold standard and then took it off as quickly as he could; who vehemently assailed the Hoover administration for deficit spending and then created deficits greater than anyone ever dreamed.

BUT, going from issues to individuals, think of a man who assails his opponent for double talk, after the sort of double talk he gave Mr.
Byrnes last June and the sort of letter he wrote Mr. Wallace and the sort of deal he gave Senator Barkley! And these are not all. Certainly, it takes supreme effrontery for a man with the Roosevelt record of inconsistency and contradiction publicly to preen himself as having never learned to talk out of both sides of his mouth and to criticize his opponents for so doing.
The Republicans, of course, cannot call the President of the United States a liar and a fraud, but certainly it is permissible to show from the record that, coming from him, this charge of double talk is both ridiculous and hypocritical.
And it should be shown, too, because it is as phony a pose as can be imagined. If the American people accept it, then there really is nothing they cannot be given—no limit to their gullibility. Governor Dewey took full advantage of most of the openings Mr. Roosevelt had given him, except this double-talk opening, which is the widest of all.
It ought not to be overlooked. It and that preposterous Roosevelt reference to the "occasional" strike should give the Republicans enough ammunition for the rest of the campaign.

Today's Quiet Moment

By the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis
Pastor
Eddington Presbyterian Church
Eddington

Our Father in heaven, whose patience knows no bounds, we thank thee for the oncoming of thy kingdom in the world, and for the means of grace in our lives. We bless thee for the Son of Man; serving in Galilee, loving in Judea, triumphing in Gethsemane, atoning on Calvary and rising from the grave. We rejoice in our redemption through him and in the hope of immortality brought to light by him. Yet in our weakness we have set our hearts on things on the earth. We have thought success better than righteousness and ease desirable above service. In thy patience brood over our dull spirits till love awakens in us. We commit ourselves to the Son of Man in holy living and loving service, for his Name's sake. Amen.

Thanks to the Improved Chi-Ches-Ters Pills—and the girls at the plant who told me about them—I no longer suffer on "difficult days." Chi-Ches-Ters are so effective for simple periodic distress because they're more than just a pain-killer. One of their ingredients is intended to help relax cramped and tense muscles that cause pain. And there's an added iron factor tending to help build up your blood. Be sure to try them for "those days." Ask your druggist tomorrow for the 50¢ size, and follow directions as given on the package.

PLANS FOR MILK

Surprising ... the amount of planning and working that goes into a single quart of milk that arrives on your doorstep in the morning.

It starts on the Supplee farms ... the seeds the farmer plants, the crops he harvests, are all part of the plan ... for proper feeding methods, along with scientific breeding for increased production, are playing a big part in helping to meet today's great needs, and will continue to help to keep up the flow of milk at the highest possible level during the low production months ahead.

In spite of wartime shortages and drawbacks, Supplee farmers are ever on the job to bring you a nourishing share of this most important of foods, with its wealth of proteins, vitamins and minerals. And you can help in using it wisely ... in ordering just the milk you need for your family, and in using cream and milk products conservatively. For dairy products are under government restriction so that more of them can be preserved in permanent forms for shipping to our armies and allies.

Together Supplee, and Supplee farmers, are working to bring you your full share of the available supplies in a milk that's fine and rich and wholesomely pure ... and to bring you the milk that's extra nourishing—Supplee Sealtest Homogenized Vitamin D Milk with the cream mixed throughout.

ANTONELLI ENTERS BOWLING HALL OF FAME

Joseph Antonelli, of the Rohm & Haas bowling team (Major League), entered the "hall of fame" in bowling circles, Monday, at "Chick" O'Day's bowling emporium, here, when he bowled three two-hundred-and-something games. This is considered the next best thing to a perfect "300" feat. It is understood that "Joe" is to receive some sort of recognition for his feat by a Philadelphia newspaper. "Joe" is considered quite a baseball tosser, which may account for his prowess as a "knocker-down" of the maples.

Sellersville Couple Has 6 Boys Serving

The Ketterers' pride is mingled with a constant fear for the safety of their boys and the unending hope that all will be back soon, but they are not complaining. They go about their work as usual. Mr. Ketterer as a carpenter employed by contractor William Horn, Perkase, and Mrs. Ketterer, as an operator in the Beldier Clothing factory here, and seek nothing more than an opportunity to earn an honest living for their large family. Yes, with six sons and a son-in-law in the army they still have four sons and two daughters at home.

Nor were the Ketterers spared the ordeal of opening a telegram from the army. Several weeks ago the bad news came, but there was a sigh of relief when the message said "slightly injured in action."

It referred to Pfc. Norman Ketterer, who got several shell splinters in the back and leg in the Normandy invasion. He is now recuperating in a hospital in England and expects to be ready for action in the near future. Two other sons are over seas, Pvt. Clarence in England and Pfc. Raymond, in Scotland.

The boys, in order of their induction are:

Cpl. George O. Ketterer, inducted March, 1941, received his basic training at Fort Riley, Kansas, is stationed at Fort McIntosh, Texas.

Pvt. Raymond B. Ketterer, inducted December, 1942, received his basic training with the Medical Corps at Camp Robinson, Ark., is at present in Scotland.

Pfc. Lloyd B. Ketterer, inducted in January, 1943, is stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri.

Pfc. Norman B. Ketterer, inducted May 8, 1943, received his basic training at Camp Shelby, Miss., was in France, at present is in hospital in England.

Pvt. Harvey L. Keller, son-in-law, inducted July, 1943, received his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., is now stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Pvt. Clarence W. Ketterer, inducted March 13, 1944, received his basic training at Camp Blanding, Fla., is at present in England.

Pfc. Stanley B. Ketterer served 13 months in the U. S. Army when he received an honorable discharge.

Force. 2nd Lt. Roy L. Cousins of 421 Midland avenue, St. Davids, Pa., is the pilot. The navigator is 2nd Lt. John S. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Murphy, 136 West Sedgwick street, Philadelphia, formerly a clerk for the Phila. Electric Company. Also from the Quaker City, is the radio operator, S/Sgt. Joseph Didomenic, son of Louis Concetta Didomenic, S. Watts street. Sgt. James A. Moore, Jr., McKinley avenue, Lansdowne, Pa., fires the ball turret guns of "Paoli Local." He used to be a locomotive fireman for the Pennsylvania Railroad before he entered the army. At the nose gun is a Bristol man, S/Sgt. Francis Ronald Argust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Argust, of Washington street.

The "Paoli Local" crew arrived overseas last spring. At the time, their bomber was nameless, but once "Paoli Local" was suggested, the preponderance of Pennsylvania strength left little room for argument. Since then, the big Liberator has ranged over the Balkans, northern Italy and southern Germany, hitting at Nazi industrial and communications targets, helping to cripple the enemy's powers of resistance.

Warn of Long War With The Enemy in Pacific Area

years after the defeat of Germany is considered the absolute minimum.

"Pacific commanders assert that Japan has lost the power of a strategic offensive beyond the range of her land-based planes. This is due to U. S. supremacy in aircraft carriers, and to the sinking of many of the lighter screening units of Japan's fleet. Not eliminated, however, is the possibility of sporadic raids by the Japanese on our west coast."

The OWI also warned that "no internal collapse of Japan is expected," and pointed out that the enemy has a powerful army of 4,000,000 men, his geographical position is favorable and he still has a strong navy of 10 to 13 battleships, 10 to 12 large aircraft carriers and smaller warships.

The strategic advantages of the Allies were listed by the OWI as follows:

1. The huge Allied war production. The U. S. alone produces 8,000 combat planes a month as contrasted with Japan's estimated production of 1,400 or 1,500 planes a month.

2. The United States has definite sea supremacy in the Pacific (here the OWI warned of the possibility of Jap raids on the Pacific coast.)

3. Japan's merchant shipping is being sunk at a much greater rate than her ability to replace ships. Sinkings are estimated at 1,500,000 tons per year as compared with the enemy's ship construction of 1,000,000 tons annually.

4. Nipponese industries now are being hit by B-29 Superfortress bombers. It was pointed out that the raids have been possible only at periods of 10 days or more "but it constitutes a definite advance in the warfare against Japan."

5. Island-skipping has neutralized about 50 major Jap bases in the Pacific, and the Marianas invasion placed American forces 1,400 miles from Tokyo.

6. Allied forces now are established so that another major move (into the Philippines) will place them in a position to virtually sever Japan's north-south sea communication lines.

7. The OWI quotes Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the effect that Japan has a powerful army but that she is "weak in leadership" due to the fact that her officer corps is built upon a caste and feudal system instead of professional merit.

8. At sea Japan has been out-fought and outmaneuvered. In the air, the enemy has lost five planes to our one. On the ground, the Jap soldier has been beaten in every battle since the Allied offensive began.

9. Japan has failed to capitalize fully on her conquests since Pearl Harbor. Primarily, Japan's war production is the capacity of her pre-Pearl Harbor industrial plant rather than the raw material resources of her conquests.

Following are some of the highlights of the factors favoring Japan:

1. According to the FEA Japan is capable of increasing her war production.

2. Geography fights on the side of Japan; the Allies are still beyond the mass bombing range of Jap cities.

3. Before major invasions can be launched, the Allies must solve a tremendous shipping problem.

4. The course of the war in China has been in Japan's favor; safe supply routes to China still are to be opened by the Allies.

WHY ROOSEVELT SHOULD VOTE FOR DEWEY

Despite the utterances of New Deal spokesmen, and their success in moulding the administration's record, so far as public utterances go the President joins hands with the Republican Party in championing the twin causes of private enterprise and personal ownership and use of property.

Said he, for example, in an address at Chicago on October 14, 1936:

"I believe, I have always believed, and I will always believe in private enterprise as the backbone of economic well-being in the United States."

Should he not therefore vote this Fall for Governor Dewey, who is the sole remaining hope of private enterprise in America?

The President's endorsements of private enterprise and the profit motive have occurred many times. The following are to the point.

"The first duty of our statesmanship today is to bring capital and man-power together."—Annual Message to Congress, January 4, 1939.

"Business enterprise needs new vitality and the flexibility that comes from the diversified efforts, independent judgments and vibrant energies of thousands upon thousands of independent businessmen. The individual must be encouraged to exercise his own judgment and to venture his small savings, not in stock gambling but in new enterprise investment."—Message to Congress April 29, 1938.

"Most business men, big and little, know that their government neither wants to put them out of business nor to prevent them from earning a decent profit."—Fireside Chat, October 12, 1937.

"Different from a great part of the world, we in America persist in our belief in individual enterprise and the profit motive."—Fireside Chat, June 24, 1938.

These remarks do not reflect the dominant sentiment of the New Deal policy makers. That sentiment is strongly in favor of close government control of industry, preferably under monopolies of retaining all the present authorities over man-power, commodity priorities, prices, rationing, and government-owned industrial plants and establishments.

If the President really is in earnest about wishing to see an industrial awakening under the stimulus of private initiative, his one hope of realizing that wish is to vote for Governor Dewey.

(Tomorrow: Senator Truman)

FRUIT JAMS ADD COLOR AND "ZIP" TO FAMILY'S MEALS

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham

(Home Economics Representative)
Fruit jams add color, flavor and zip to meals. Jams are economical, since all the fruit may be used. Jams may be quickly made.

For the recipe file:

Plum Jam—Select plums of tart variety. Wash fruit and drain. To each pound of fruit allow ¾ pound of sugar and 1 cup water. Boil the fruit in the water 10-15 minutes or until the skins are tender. Add sugar and stir while boiling until mixture is thick. Pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal at once.

UPSET STOMACH
"Pepto-Bismol" is good for that Never upset an upset stomach with overdoses of antacids or harsh physics. Be gentle with it. Take soothing PEPTO-BISMOL. Not a laxative. Not an antacid. It calms and soothes your upset stomach. Pleasant to the taste—children love it. Ask your druggist for PEPTO-BISMOL when your stomach is upset.

A NORWICH PRODUCT

Peach Jam—Any variety of white or yellow peach will make satisfactory preserves if chosen at the firm-ripe stage.

Wash and pare. Cut into small pieces. To each pound of prepared fruit allow ¾ pound of sugar. Combine the fruit and sugar in alternate layers and let stand 8 to 10 hours or overnight before cooking. Or add the sugar and ¼ cup water for each pound fruit and cook at once. Stir rapidly while heating and boil rapidly until thick. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.
